LONG DISTANCE TIME SHARING GUIDELINES
(FOR CHILDREN FIVE AND OLDER-YOUNGER ON CASE BY CASE BASIS)

Modified standard or local time sharing guidelines can be used when the distance between the residences of the parents do not exceed approximately 120 miles. However, more than approximately 120 miles distance between parents normally causes standard or local guidelines to be deficient. Therefore, the following guidelines shall apply in the absence of a mutual agreement between the parents or in the absence of a specific court order.

1. The weekend and weekend parenting time extended by holiday provisions as set forth in the standard or local guidelines shall apply. However, the non-primary residential parent shall be specifically entitled to all long weekends during the school year including the weekend and following Memorial Day as well as the weekend and following Labor Day. Should those extended weekends not fall on the 1st, 3rd or 5th weekends, the non-primary residential parent shall have the long weekend and the primary residential parent shall have the weekend following the long weekend. In addition, the exchange for Christmas shall take place at noon on December 26th rather than at noon on December 25th. The parents shall alternate spring break and fall break as provided in the standard or local guidelines.

2. EXTENDED SUMMER PARENTING TIME: each summer the non-primary residential parent shall be entitled to 75% of the school vacation period. (The parents shall compute the total number of days including weekends the children will be out of school, starting the day after school lets out through the day school starts in the fall and multiply the percentage times that number of days to determine the non-primary residential parent's share. i.e. If the children get out of school on June 2 and are to return to school on August 9, the summer break consists of 77 days. 75% of that time equals 57.75 days or 58 days of parenting time.) The time period shall be continuous unless the parents agree to split the time in two or more different periods, considering the distance to be traveled, the welfare of the children and the cost of travel. If the parents cannot otherwise agree, the non-primary residential parent's extended summer possession shall begin on the 5th day after school lets out and continue the number of days computed. -

3. If the children attend a year round school with no regular summer vacation, the extended parenting time of the non-primary residential parent shall be determined by the Court if the parents cannot agree.

4. The non-primary residential parent shall have the right to have telephone contact with the children at least twice each week and unlimited e-mail communications with the children if the parents and/or children possess the necessary equipment for e-mail. If the parents are unable to agree on the days and times, the calls shall be on Monday and Thursday between 5:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. (according to the time zone in which the children reside.) Placing the calls shall be the responsibility of the non-primary residential parent.

The children shall be allowed to converse with the other parent in private and neither the primary residential parent, nor the non-primary residential parent during extended summer parenting time, shall eavesdrop or interfere with the telephone calls or e-mails.

The primary residential parent shall have the same rights to telephonic and e-mail communication as the non-primary residential parent during the extended summer parenting time.

SO ORDERED.
